Sarah Miller Coulson and Frank L. Coulson, Jr., Professor of Medicine
Mary Wallace Stanton Professor of Education
Vice Dean for Education

Dr. Ziegelstein received his B.A. in Biology summa cum laude from Boston University in 1982. He then received his M.D. from Boston University in 1986, and was inducted in the Alpha Omega Alpha Honor Medical Society. Dr. Ziegelstein completed his internship and residency in internal medicine on the Osler Medical Service at Johns Hopkins Hospital in 1989 and was an Assistant Chief of Service (ACS) at Johns Hopkins Hospital from 1989 to 1990. Dr. Ziegelstein completed his cardiology fellowship at Johns Hopkins in 1993, with a joint appointment at the NIH. He then joined the cardiology faculty at Johns Hopkins University School of Medicine, where he has been on faculty continuously since 1993.

Dr. Ziegelstein served as Executive Vice Chair of the Department of Medicine at Johns Hopkins Bayview Medical Center from 2001-2014 and he has served as Vice Chair for Humanism in the Johns Hopkins Department of Medicine since 2014. Dr. Ziegelstein directed the internal medicine residency training program at Johns Hopkins Bayview from 1997-2006. He also developed and directed the Transition to Residency and Internship and Preparation for Life (TRIPLE) course for 4th-year medical students, their “capstone” course before graduation.

Dr. Ziegelstein co-directs the Alike Initiative at Johns Hopkins Bayview Medical Center, a program for internal medicine residents that is focused on the practice of patient-centered care. Dr. Ziegelstein is a 5-time recipient of the George J. Stuart Award for Outstanding Clinical Teaching and he also has received the Professor’s Award for Distinction in Teaching in the Clinical Sciences from the Johns Hopkins University School of Medicine.

The American College of Physicians Maryland Chapter recognized him with the C. Lockard Conley Award for Contributions to Resident Education and Research and the Theodore E. Woodward Award for Medical Education. He was named a Master of the American College of Physicians in 2012, and received the Alpha Omega Alpha Robert J. Glaser Distinguished Teacher Award of the Association of American Medical Colleges in 2013. Dr. Ziegelstein received the first annual Sponsorship Award from the Task Force on Women’s Academic Careers in Medicine in the Department of Medicine, and the Johns Hopkins University School of Medicine Distinguished Medical Alumnus Award, both in 2015.
